

Opening for freelance writers to assist ANERA communications team in Lebanon

ANERA Lebanon is currently seeking a highly motivated professional writer to support its communications team in Lebanon. The incumbent should have a combination of writing, and potentially photography experience, preferably with a background in public relations, communications, journalism or a related field.

As assigned by ANERA's communication team, the incumbent will write short articles and stories about ANERA's programs and activities in Lebanon. Stories may be human interest or news and are to be written in English (and if possible in Arabic), and in compliance with the external communications guidelines for ANERA. Written pieces are to be used in public communication vehicles such as newsletters, the ANERA website, reports and appeals for funding. The incumbent will also take high resolution photographs, with captions, to accompany each story. She or he will be required to travel to ANERA's project locations around Lebanon to cover the stories.

Successful candidate will work as an independent freelancer, writing stories and articles only upon need and request from ANERA communications team.

Expression of interest

Interested applicants are requested to send their resume, their letter of intent, and samples of any story and or article they had written to anera@aneralebanon.org.

If shortlisted, a sample assignment will be requested from successful applicant to submit for evaluation. Remuneration will be made per job assignment.

About ANERA

ANERA is a non-profit non-governmental organization working for more than 40 years on development, health, education and employment programs; focusing on impoverished communities in Lebanon, Jordan, West Bank and Gaza www.anera.org